

Metatron Tiger Irons

Tom Jacobs, tdjacobs.com

Metatron's basic nature is incredibly intense. He holds space for us to tap into our divine power and make the right choices, often stirring us to upgrade our motivations for choosing.

Because of this, his energy fits well with the natural properties of tiger iron, which draws energy to your lower 3 chakras so you can get grounded and make better, more empowered decisions.

Metatron is one of the two angels who was human, and his elevation to being an angel was a fiery purging transformation. He carries the truth of what a human is as a soul, consciousness existing across time. His focus is uncompromising, and meeting him can be intense.

My work with him has progressed in stages since late 2004, when in my first channeled reading I was told that he was my primary guide. It turns out he's actually a tutor and helper for me, but he has been around me always and seems to be a guide.

At first, he wouldn't talk to me, wouldn't answer questions, no matter what I asked or said. He would stare at me, his face made of flames, and I would get exposed to his vibration and know the truth. Staring into his eyes, I'd come to realize I already knew the answer to my question.

After a few years of this, he began DJing songs in my head with messages. Mostly songs stuck in my head from when I was a kid. A lot of 1980s songs were repeated snippets in my head for a few years, which at first was tough to deal with. The point of this was always to inspire me to replace a negative with a positive, one of his teachings and inspirations for all of us.

Beginning in mid 2012 I began bringing him through during energy work/meditation calls (recordings of these intense, world-rocking, transformative events are available) and in energy work sessions when appropriate.

When I did an energy clearing session for a 10-year old boy whose mother told me he had spirit attachments, Metatron came through and told me to take an unpolished tower/wedge of tiger iron and charge it with M.'s energy, and send it to the mother to put in the boy's room.

It would serve as a marker that the boy was protected by Metatron, that he was "in my club" (yes, Metatron said that), and other spirits wandering around would know to stay away from the boy.

The tower was to anchor Metatron's energy in the room, sending the message that the boy was not to be messed with.

Soon after, I energetically charged a few more larger unpolished and partially polished tiger iron pieces. When doing this work on the stones or for people, the main method was to call up his face as if he is facing me and engage with his energy, and then turn the face around and put it over my own as if a mask. My whole body was affected by the frequency shift, and my breathing became heavy and forced as I carried and moved his energy into the client or the stone. The energy it took to do it exhausted me, and after a few months of not running M.'s energy at all so I could rest, he showed me how to moderate carrying his frequency. I realized that I needed to go through that first process in order to learn how to do it, and how to understand its effects on my body and energy field, before learning a more manageable way.

Since then, he's inspired me to join a gym again to lift weights, which is usually a sign from him that it's time for me to up my energy work process with his frequency.

The other day I charged 8 slabs with his energy, but a modified, gentle version of it. Both so it wouldn't drain me to do it and so those who use them can adjust to his intensity slowly and surely.

What these pieces will do includes grounding - as the Djehuty tiger irons do - and they will also gently and quietly pulse energy throughout your field and body so that you can become more whole. His mission is to get us to own our power, and the container of consciousness must be anchored solidly in our physical bodies if we are to in fact own that power. That he tells/inspires me to lift weights on days when I'm ready to channel him (I find myself at the gym and then hours later he comes to me to work) is an indication that the physical is integral to working with him.

These tiger iron pieces will push through blocks in your field and body, restoring energetic wholeness. Your physical body will respond – it can't help but conform to what your energy field is doing – and various parts of your body will be connected again or in new ways. This can involve some minor discomfort for a few days as energy moves and muscles, connective tissues, and organs adjust to the new energy pattern. As energy flow is restored, emotional issues can come up, and old ideas and attitudes you're ready to leave behind will become more apparent. You might catch yourself thinking something because of habit and then realizing you don't want that vibration in your life. You might also realize that you're not thinking the things that used to be on your mind all the time, evidence that Metatron's energy has caused an interruption in patterns that don't serve you.

When I was charging the slabs a few days ago (one is pictured above), Metatron came through to say this:

When I speak, it is to effect change.

To seed change, to plant the seed of change.

You are already the Divine, you are already power incarnate.

You believe your imminent death means that you are powerless, yet it simply means that your multilife empowerment journey is divided into chapters.

When I speak, it is to effect change within you. You are already the Divine, you are already power incarnate.

You must face within yourselves the blocks to absolute and total authenticity. You must confront that which you hold onto and use to keep yourself small and feeling unworthy. You are already the Divine. You are already Divine power incarnate.

The ultimate goal he has for you is that you become empowered to step into full authenticity. In fact, he will inspire you to become uncompromising in how you consider who you are what you're willing to do and experience. No negative self-talk, no small and self-pitying self-image can possibly help you express your Divine nature, and Metatron will inspire you to no longer stand for any such nonsense within yourself.

When I've spoken of him lately and say something like what's in the previous paragraph, the people I'm talking to seem to have felt him looking at them, inviting them to meet his gaze through me. The energy changes suddenly, and I realize that this is yet another phase of my relationship with him. I'm still adjusting to what it means and what it might lead to.

Working with one of these pieces will infuse a new, empowering energy into your field and life. Suggestions for working with one:

1. Carrying it in a pocket as you go about your day: Having it with you will begin to affect your vibration.
2. Sitting with it in your hand in meditation or doing other things: Consciously getting used to the energy it's giving off will further the process.
3. Putting it next to your bed or under your pillow: During sleep, energies can affect us in deeper ways as our conscious selves are not blocking them by running interference. Some will find Metatron tiger irons stimulating and will not want to sleep with them.
4. For those who feel it as calming, holding a piece while you sleep: This is taking Metatron's energy directly into your field, as wrapping your fingers around the piece is the most direct route to taking the energy in.

Tiger iron pieces infused with Metatron's energy on my site have "Metatron" next to the inventory number (i.e., "Metatron TI199"). These stones are listed in the lower part of the table.

Contact me with any questions about working with these powerful stones.